Quick overview

- Amount: $3 000 - $40 000
- Term: 6 months - 7 years

The screenshot shows the ANZ website's "Personal loan repayments calculator" page. The page title is "What will my ANZ Personal Loan repayments be?". Below the title, there is a brief instruction: "Use this calculator to work out what your ANZ Personal Loan repayments could be." The form includes a "Your information is secure" notice and a "Required fields" indicator. There are buttons for "SAVE FOR LATER", "REFRESH", "RESET", and "PRINT". The main input fields are: "How much do you want to borrow?" with a text input field containing "5", and "How much time do you need to repay the loan?" with dropdown menus for "7 years" and "0 months". A "Calculate" button is positioned below these fields. A "Disclaimer" section is visible at the bottom, stating: "Subject to you holding or setting up an ANZ everyday account (such as ANZ Freedom Account, or ANZ Go Account). This calculator provides an estimate/illustration only and is based on the accuracy of the limited financial information provided by you. Results are based on amortised scheduled repayments with a constant interest rate for the term of the loan. This is not an offer of finance by ANZ and a full lending application will need to be completed. The information stored in this calculator will be passed between calculators and our online application form for your convenience, but will not..."

A representative example

Loan amount $3 000 borrowed and fully repaid after 5 years of using the loan. Total amount payable = $4 750. The fee would be $1 750.
